I have a 1 year old male chihuahua, bit of a reluctant sale as ive just had a baby and we've tried everything to make this work.
 He has had all of his puppy jabs but admittedly he probably does need some boosters done soon.
 He is microchipped, insured and neutered.
 He is very very good with people he knows, and does take an instant liking to children, but has recently become snappy towards adults, im not sure if this is to do with the baby arriving or his breed, but he has become somewhat hard work to deal with,
 Any one that comes near the house will recieve a good talking to by him and im sure you can imagine when im visited by health visitors they do get a bit anxious when they hear him and it can alarm them knowing i have a small baby here.
 My 7 year old daughter will miss him dearly but its apparent she cannot deal with such am active dog, she prefers to sit quietly with him but all he wants to do is follow her around nipping her fingers!
 i havn't painted the best picture of him but to be honest my bond with him has gone since giving birth so i want him to go to someone who maybe has other dogs he can be around (prepare for him to hump them) but this was all of the reasons we neutered him in the hope it would stop certain behaviours.
 He is pretty anxious, and at the same time likes to think of himself as a big guard dog, but also be warned- this dog licks you to death aswell!!! haha any questions do ask.
 I would ideally like a quick sale because im running out of time to be able to look after him properly.
 He will come with 2 beds, a cage, all bowls, food, leads, muzzle, toys and his toy box, his favourite blanket and any documents we hold for him
