Casaro, who is famous for many hand-painted movie posters, has replaced the workers with famous people, from left to right: King Kong, Clark Gable (It Happened One Night), Charlie Chaplin (His Tramp character), John Wayne (The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance), Humphrey Bogart (The Maltese Falcon), Marilyn Monroe (Generic, but inspired by The Seven Year Itch), Elvis, James Dean (Rebel without a Cause), Steve McQueen (Bullet), Edward G. Robinson and Johnny Weismuller (Tarzan).

Would look fantastic in the home or for pub decoration, shop decoration, restaurant decoration, office decoration. It is impressive. The frame could be painted to match your own decor.
