I am looking for a small plot of land in London or Bristol on which I can build a one bedroom house. My only options are pay extortionate London prices and never save any money, or self build.

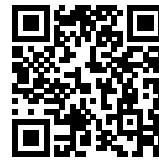

If you have a small plot of land that you are currently not using for anything, this could be a quick and easy way to make some money without the hassle of paying agency fees to shift it.

It can be empty land (part of a garden etc), a row of garages that can be demolished, a small concreted area, or a small dilapidated building that can be knocked down or refurbished, anything really.

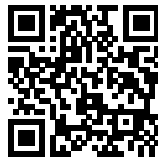

I am looking for anything in Greater London or
