Tired of paper work? Angry about lost business opportunities due to spending too much time on time-consuming routines that need to be done to keep your business running? Eager to gain business advantage to win competition? This small business is oriented at supporting my client's businesses to let them focus on its core activity rather than fighting with red tape and office simple works. After almost 10 years of experience in one of the biggest worldwide FMCG organization I always dreamed that one day I'll be doing it as a freelancer under my own brand of professionalism and reliability. If you would like to find more please feel invited to contact me. Your business may be big or small. I am very flexible to fit your needs. As for the benefits for you please let surprise you so please make our own offer. Let' me assure you that each will be revised and replied. - development of new products and components in client's systems based on R&D specifications - managing product changes by its coordination of scope, time, volume and risk - call off deliveries based on agreed client's frame purchase order considering material availability and optimization of stock value - system clean up by regular quires oriented at identification of obsolete items in order to scrap leftovers and release storage place - daily stock comparison between report from 3rd party versus stock report from client's system including identification, clarifying, elimination of stock differences. Processing interface if there is any in place. -linking invoices with deliveries (including clarifying all volume and value misalignments with supplier and warehouse) My services are available in entire UK and Ireland however the job will be done remotely by me from my office. Please contact me to find out more or make your own offer for my consideration. First interview video conference is.
