Having your bars run is a deeply relaxing experience that provides complete ease in your mind and body. Clients report changes such as feeling light and expansive, mind chatter completely stopped, more energy, feeling much happier, gaining new found confidence even receiving job offers as well as other exciting changes happening in their life and body. This energetic process releases blocked energy opening you and your body to greater receiving and locks in the changes so that physical and emotional maladies get profoundly (and often permanently) altered. During your session you are fully clothed while points on the head are gently touched releasing all the points of view, judgements and limitation locked up in your body giving you more space more choice and complete ease.
