recently painted it with a cheap brand of black metal paint because i was always not content with the original paint design with all the colours, im sure if somebody wanted to dissolve the black paint to reveal the original paintjob underneath it would not be that hard and it was not sanded before painting etc. but i think it looks better all black anyway, the bike has many new parts, rides really well with no need for any work. i like this bike but i could do with money and im just seeing if someone wants it they can pay 800 for it, if you compare what bike you got for 800 back in 1999, you see how i think 800 is reasonable for such a steed. i would consider part cash and part trade for a different bike, like maybe a spesh.
