Why is everyone struggling to pass their B1 English Test and Life in the UK Test?

Since the new regulations came in 2015 for knowledge of Life in the UK and English Language requirement for Indefinite Stay and British Citizenship applications, people are struggling to pass these exams.

These new regulations require everyone to pass their B1 English Test at an approved SELT Centre. There are very few SELT exam centres in the UK. Prior to this you could pass any Ofqual registered ESOL Entry 3 exam in speaking and listening to meet this requirement.

Many people are struggling to pass this B1 English exam in speaking and listening because sometimes they live very far away from the test centre and are finding it difficult to travel. These approved English exam centres are only available in major cities such as London, Manchester, Leeds, Peterborough, Birmingham, Glasgow, Cardiff and Belfast.

Some of the students are unable to find any ESOL courses or classes because many centres have shut down and local community centres don't have enough funding to offer these courses to help students to prepare for their English exams for the Home Office. Other problem is that many of the students are working long hours and do not get enough time to study at home. Many of them don't even have friends to practice English language or ask for any guidance.

Intelligent Training Academy, offers regular English classes and help especially for those who want to improve their English language skills to help them pass their exams such as A1, B1, B2, etc. In our English language classes you will learn grammar, vocabulary and will be able to pass your speaking and listening exam for the Home Office. We have helped thousands of students to pass their English and pass their exams.

Now we are also offering Life in the UK Test exam preparation classes on weekends. We have realised that people need some help and guidance to pass this test for the IIR or British Citizenship application. We have also seen that mostly these people are working hard during weekdays so weekend is their ultimate choice. Our experienced teacher will help you to understand the context from Life in the UK book so you can pass your Life in the UK exam at first attempt.
